To whom it may concern,

It gives me great pleasure to recommend Jacqueline Schaffer, to your organization. I have worked closely with Jackie for several years, and have observed her very strong organizational skills, and strong commitment to corporate excellence.

Jackie had accepted a turn around position, which involved her gaining management acceptance immediately, as well as establishing positive relationships with her team and the professional staff she supported. One of her strongest skills involved the engagement, of a variety of different professionals all working toward a common goal of improved patient outcomes that resulted in enhanced department results.

Also, Jackie's networking skills and the fact that she was very aware of the various stakeholders that needed to be communicated to (on an as needed basis) allow her to work through the sometimes-complex management systems of a large city hospital.

Jacqueline Schafer's work ethic, commitment to excellence and strong people skills will make her an asset to any organization.

Sincerely,

John A Bellante
